Wilson - Carter Wedding

Hebron Baptist Church, Appomattox County, was decorated with native greens, white flowers, and candles for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Lee Carter, of Concord Depot, daughter of Mr. Thornhill Carter, of Roseland, and the Reverend Bert Wilson, son of Mrs. D. L. Dixon, of New Orleans, Louisiana, which took place on Tuesday, the second of August, at four o'clock. The Reverend G. Edward Hughes, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a light ivory satin wedding gown made with a tight fitting bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves, and a full skirt ending in a circular train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place with a coronet of flowers. She carried a New Testament covered with a white orchid.

Miss Mary Frances Jennings, of Appomattox acted as maid of honor. She wore a fuschia taffeta gown made with a rounded neckline, tight bodice, short sleeves and full skirt. A row of ruffles accentuated the skirt and neckline. She carried an old fashion nosegay tied with white ribbon.

The bridesmaids were Miss Jean Carter, Roseland, sister of the bride; Miss Melbah Booth, of Danville; Miss Adeline Dixon, of New Orleans, sister of the groom, and Miss Ethel Meadow, Moneta. They wore the same type gowns as that of the maid of honor. Miss Carter and Miss Booth were in pink, and Miss Dixon and Miss Meador were blue. Their bouquets were like that of the maid or honor and tied with contrasting ribbon.

The Reverend Eslie Phillips, of New Church, Virginia, and Louisville, Kentucky acted as best man.

The ushers included Mr. Hugh Bradford, Mr. Tom Ray Burnett and Mr. Tom Davidson, of Appomattox and Mr. Lyle Morgan, of Moneta.

Miss Betty Anne McGhee, pianist of Bedford and Mrs. Tom Booth, soloist, of Concord Depot furnished the wedding music.

Mrs. Lester Carson, aunt of the bride, wore a blue figured dress, with black and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. Dixon, mother of the groom wore a black dress accentuated with white lace. Her accessories were black. Her corsage was white roses.

A reception followed the ceremony, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Carson.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their home in Louisville, Kentucky.

New Courses Are Offered

Among the courses to be offered by the Evening Division of Longwood College, Farmville, which it reopens on September 26 will be those in beginning typewriting and in business correspondence. The course in typewriting will be for persons who have had no previous training in the subject. The course in business correspondence is intended for business men and women, secretaries and others who wish to learn more about composing and writing business letters.

The course in typing will be taught by Norman O. Myers, associate professor of business education at Longwood College. The class will meet on Monday and Thursday nights from 7:15 to 9:15. It will provide an opportunity for interested persons to learn typing for their personal use or in office positions. More advanced instruction in typing will be offered during the second semester.

Miss Mary Nichols, associate professor of English at Longwood College, will conduct the course in business correspondence. The class will meet on Tuesday nights from 7:15 to 9:50.

Builders Give Hints On Better Methods Of Office Housework

CHICAGO.—The national association of building owners and managers has come out with some hints for better office housekeeping. Here are the suggestions:

Get rid of cuspidors. They are outmoded and unsanitary and create a floor hazard.

Keep desks, tables and cabinets away from the walls. They may mar the paint and plaster. Lack of space between furniture and the walls makes it hard on the cleaning lady.

Keep casters on swivel chairs, typewriter stands, and other movable equipment oiled. Defective casters damage floor coverings.

If you want to pin up something, pin it on a cork bulletin board. Keep notices and charts off the walls. Use desk calendars.

Keep floors and the tops of cabinets free of books, magazines, papers, samples, etc. They collect dirt.

"There is no reason why our office homes should not be kept as neat and smart looking as our homes," says the association.

Boy Hidden for 14 Years By Mother, Ignores Her

BOSTON.—With a trembling, smallboy, "no," Gerald Sullivan, 14, turned away from the mother who was accused of keeping him a "hidden boy" most of his life.

The mother, Mrs. Anna Sullivan, 45, and son met outside a closed court where she had come to plead with a judge to return her boy.

They have been apart since last March 14 when Gerald startled the world on his first day of real freedom.

In ragged dresses and with black curls down to his shoulders, Gerald told police of his escape from a tenement room in which he said his mother kept him locked.

He said he knew nothing of the world outside except what he could see through a slit below a nailed curtain.

His mother—in a weeping interview with newsmen—said she loved the boy and meant him no harm.

Germans Make Ersatz Meat, Milk Products

FRANKFURT, GERMANY.—Defeated Germany has produced two new ersatz foods which may raise diet standards for poor people everywhere.

The new foods are ersatz meat and milk. They have the same caloric value as real meat and milk at about half the price.

American officials say the new foods are potentially a great innovation in human feeding. Here's why, in the words of Gwynn Garnett, chief of the Anglo-American bipartite food office:

"Into these products the deficits of the diet in proteins, minerals and vitamins can be added at will. Not only is the program potentially of great importance for Western Germany but for the countries of Western Europe and all poor people. It provides them with the essential human nutrients at low cost."

Sold in Cans

In food-short western Germany, the ersatz meat is sold in cans or in sausage-like rolls. The price is 2.20 marks (about 95 cents) for two pounds. Real meat sells for $1.50 for the same quantity.

Western Germans are buying the ersatz meat faster than plants can turn it out, says W. D. Mitchell, British deputy chief of the bipartite food office. Five favorites are producing it.

Garnett says the ersatz meat "is composed of an equal amount of sausage and of defatted soya, food yeast, fat, hydralized proteins, cereals and spices.

"It can be given the flavor of fish, poultry, lamb, beef or pork by adding extracts of these products."

German scientists working under the direction of American food officials developed the ersatz meat.

—The ersatz milk—called lactavena —already is being fed to young children in the milk-short Ruhr area. A Hamburg concern is producing 100 tons a month.

A British medical research group working in the Ruhr with German scientists developed lactavena. It is a dried mixture of oats, malted barley, corn, sugar and wheat with 10 per cent dried skim milk. It is fortified with Vitamins A, D and C and Vitamin B complex and calcium.

Milk Substitute

Garnett says it is "a complete substitute for whole milk after being reconstituted by the addition of water. It has been fed on an experimental basis throughout the biznal area with excellent results."

American and German experts struck many snags before developing the ersatz milk. Soya alone was found to be an incomplete protein and dangerous for child feeding. The addition of malted barley wheat and a small portion of dried skim milk completely corrected this fault.

Then it was found that lactavens could not be used in feeds because heating created a bad flavor. Improvement in the processing techniques overcame this last hurdle.

Tobacco Important In Marshall Plan

Is Present Prop Of Tobacco Farmer

Tobacco, from the time of the Virginia colony, has marched along as an intimate part of the American story to the present day. In the wake of World War II, as the United States emerged the strongest economic power, the American cigarette became temporarily a universal wampum—the chief currency in both Berlin and Burma.

"You have a cigarette economy from Paris to Peking," a member told the house of commons in 1946.

John Rolfe, husband of Pocahontas, would be astonished if he could see what he started when he brought in the seed of modern tobacco. In 1943, the United States made about 337 billion cigarettes, and the tobacco industry directly paid in excise and import taxes nearly two billion dollars.

From Virginia and Maryland the tobacco fields, growing over 25 types, have spread into North and South Carolina, south Georgia and northern Florida, Connecticut and

To support an undermined foundation, jack up the sill and dig out under the foundation. Fill the excavated area against the wood form with concrete (1 part cement, 2 parts sand, and 5 parts coarse aggregate.)

Massachusetts, and the great burley area of Tennessee, Kentucky and the north bank of the Ohio.

America and the world have smoked the tobacco in pipes, cigars and cigarettes, and snuffed it in powdered form and chewed it.

The "chaw" is the most American of tobacco habits. European visitors have looked upon this habit with disgust. In 1947, addicts chewed 100 million pounds of tobacco.

The cigarette is the prime favorite. The modern cigarette, as we know it, was created almost on the eve of World War I. The formula for the popular brands sounds appetizing and nutritious. They mix with the bright leaf some Turkish tobaccos, much sweetened Burley and some Maryland. A quantity of glycerine or its equivalent preserves moisture. The whole is made tasty with such flavors as sugar, rum, licorice, chocolate, and vanilla-like products or chemicals.

The cigarette has even wooed many of the ladies away from their pipes or snuff sticks.

Tobacco is of considerable importance in the Marshall plan—and the Marshall plan is the present prop of the tobacco farmer.
